

All Refugees Welcome

Social Media toolkit March 2022

We all welcome and applaud the outpouring of support for Ukrainian refugees. At the same time we cannot ignore the double standard that is on display. The United State's domestic policy response to Ukraine has stood in stark contrast to ongoing crises in Yemen, Tigray, Syria, Afghanistan, Venezuela, and in other regions and countries around the world. From world leaders, to journalists, community members, places of worship, and business leaders, the responses have constantly fallen into the use of language that expresses confusion that a "civilized" or "relatively European" country could be facing so much destruction. Stories of racism faced at the borders of Ukraine and groups of Black and brown Ukrainians, immigrants, and students being denied safety are rampant. Communities previously considered anti-immigrant are now welcoming (*white) Ukrainians with open arms.

We're dismayed that Title 42 is still in effect and to-date has expelled over 1,200,000 individualsdisproportionately Black asylum seekers. We're angry that TPS for Ukraine was a no-brainer for the administration, but TPS for Bahamas, Cameroon, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Guatemala, Guinea, Honduras, Hong Kong, Lebanon, Mauritania, Nepal, Nicaragua, and Sierra Leone hasn't happened yet. And meanwhile, thousands of Afghans were left behind in an evacuation that advocates told the administration they weren't ready for and now, too many in the world have moved past.

RCUSA has prepared 6 policy recommendations for the administration that focus on increasing resettlement capacity, efficiency, and transparency. We are echoing these policy asks in this campaign. We're also going to continue to call for the administration to End Title 42, grant TPS, and introduce and pass the Afghan Adjustment Act.

This toolkit is intended to offer some graphics and messaging, to ease the burden on your comms teams, but please feel free to share your own policy asks and advocacy during this time and link it to the campaign with the hashtags #AllRefugeesWelcome or #WelcomeWithoutDiscrimination.

We stand together with all refugees and migrants fleeing conflict, violence and persecution. All refugees–regardless of where they come from or how they worship–deserve safety and protection, without discrimination.
